

A Voice to be Heard

IVP launched the publication of A Voice to be Heard: Christian Entrepreneurs Living Out Their Faith at St Peter's Vere Street, the home of the London Institute for Contemporary Christianity, on 28 September 2017.

Written by Richard Higginson, Director of Faith in Business at Ridley Hall, and Kina Robertshaw, former Ridley student and now a curate in Hereford diocese, the book is based on Kina's extensive and up-to-date research with 50 leading Christian entrepreneurs from a variety of business sectors.

The book explains the history and explores the motivation of Christian entrepreneurs. It shows the contribution they are making through producing high quality goods and services, promoting Christian values, witnessing to people in business, and giving generously to worthy causes. It celebrates the work of Christian entrepreneurs but also challenges them, urging them to widen their vision and grasp their role in God's overall mission, and calls on church leaders to recognise, affirm and encourage entrepreneurs in their midst.

Four further events to mark the publication of the book have taken place, in Cambridge on October 20 2017, Manchester on November 21 2017, Hereford on February 26 2018, and Birmingham on March 19 2018. All were well-attended, joyful and overwhelmingly positive occasions, with many copies of the book sold!

The book is available from Eden at www.eden.co.uk/shop/a-voice-to-be-heard-4537692.html, or Amazon at www.amazon.co.uk/Voice-Be-Heard-Richard-Higginson/dp/1783595655.

